Staebler Vows Full Effort In Rights Move

PONTIAC (AP) — The entire weight of the governor's office would be thrown behind the solution of civil rights problems if he were elected, Democratic congressman Neil Staebler pledged Friday.

Civil rights is not an issue in the campaign. Both Staebler and Republican Gov. George Romney have said they agree completely on the question.

And even in his attempts to link Romney with GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater, Staebler has always made it a point to state that the Republican presidential and gubernatorial candidates do not agree on civil rights.

Staebler made the pledge at a private meeting with state and Oakland County leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Reviews Program

"They wanted to go over my program," Staebler said after the meeting. "They brought up some new questions and what they feel are problems in the state now."

Among his programs would be a more concerted effort to get Negroes in the State Police force. At various times in the past individual Negro candidates have started in the State Police Academy but all have dropped out.

State Police Commissioner Joseph Childs has been receptive to the idea of having Negro troopers, he said.

Staebler spent the day stumping Romney's home territory — the Republican stronghold of Oakland County, where Romney won by more than 53,000 votes two years ago.

He addressed a Young Democrats' meeting at Oakland University, spoke before the Oakland County Business and Professional Association, shook hands in shopping centers and visited at the homes of local supporters.

Staebler will campaign in the Detroit metropolitan area all day today.

Court Orders Mrs. Rockefeller To Yield Child

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller was under court order to surrender her 4-year-old daughter today to Dr. James S. Murphy, the man she divorced 18 months ago to marry the governor.

The transfer of Malinda Murphy from the Rockefeller estate near Tarrytown, N.Y., to the swank Manhattan residence of Dr. Murphy and his new wife was directed Friday by state Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Gagliardi.

Malinda went to live with Mrs. Rockefeller when Dr. Murphy remarried last June.

This was part of a complicated blueprint of visiting rights granted Mrs. Rockefeller, who lost a suit last month to gain custody of her four children by Dr. Murphy.

The visiting rights were arranged by Justice Gagliardi after attorneys for Mrs. Rockefeller and her former husband of 15 years were unable to reach agreement on how the parents should share time with their children — James, 13, Margareta, 11, Carol, 8, and Malinda.

Boos greeted the mention of Humphrey's name, and Goldwater said:

"There is no need to boo. He is a candidate just like all of us."

"We had a very friendly visit and went on our way," Goldwater recalled.

LBJ Grabs Too Much Power, Barry Charges

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, barnstorming across Ohio, asked a cheering crowd today, "Do you want one man's thumb on your country, or do you want yours?"

In his first stop on a second swing through the state he has labeled a key to victory Nov. 3, the Republican presidential nominee launched an attack on President Johnson, accusing him of grabbing too much power.

He called the Democratic philosophy of government the "one-man, one-thumb idea."

Two weeks ago, Goldwater made a whistle-stop tour across Ohio. His other stops today were at Akron, Canton and Youngstown.

As the Arizona senator reached the center of town he was greeted by almost as many LBJ signs as Goldwater signs.

Reception Friendly But the reception from the crowd, estimated by police at 4,000, was noisy and friendly.

Goldwater defended himself against what he called his worst liability — charges that he is trigger-happy and might start a war if he is elected president.

He began by saying: "Before we talk about whose finger ought to be on the trigger, I want to talk about whose finger ought to be on the country, whose thumb."

Goldwater said it was possible "to disagree without being disagreeable."

He recalled his brief meeting yesterday with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, in Sioux Falls, S.D.

Boos greeted the mention of Humphrey's name, and Goldwater said:

"There is no need to boo. He is a candidate just like all of us."

"We had a very friendly visit and went on our way," Goldwater recalled.

Profit Sharing Formula Okayed

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union were expected to announce today the formula under which they will share profits over the next three years.

While scheduling such an announcement today, they indicated it may be contingent on their reaching strike-ending accord on other economic issues and local-level working agreements.

They agreed Friday to continue profit sharing which they inaugurated three years ago in what still is the only such plan in the automotive industry.

They differed sharply, however, on how to apply it this time, and the 1964-67 plan may follow a last-minute "new approach" which the union said it suggested. Pending joint announcement, neither side would discuss details.

Agreement on the new plan did not come until after passing of a Thursday midnight strike deadline and walkouts shut down American Motors, as they did still shut General Motors, 22 days ago with the passing of a deadline there.

At AMC, as at GM, workers said they would not return until both the national contract and at-the-plant working agreements which supplement it are wrapped up. More than 300,000 are idled at GM; 27,000 at AMC.

GM, which has negotiated a new national contract since its strike began, still has completed local-level agreements with only 65 of its 130 UAW bargaining units.

Ford Motor Co., which reached national agreement ahead of a strike, has completed 61 of 90 at-the-plant agreements. Chrysler Corp., which set a contract-pattern of higher pensions and earlier retirement, has resolved all local-level issues.

In striking GM, the UAW told workers in its plants which sell parts to Ford and Chrysler to remain on the job. All GM assembly lines were shut down, however, and now both it and AMC are out of the 1965-model production race.

Romney Lauded As 'GOP Leader Of Future'

DETROIT (AP) — Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward Brooke, declaring Gov. George Romney "will emerge as the most potential Republican leader in this country," lent his campaign efforts to Romney's reelection bid Friday.

At a news conference Brooke said Romney would be at the top level of GOP leadership if the national ticket lost in November. But later at a rally of about 250 Republicans, he declared the Romney potential regardless of the national election outcome.

Brooke, one of the nation's highest Negro elective officials, told Detroit Negroes they "should reward their friends by a vote of confidence... there is no reason for Negroes not to support Gov. Romney."

Jenkins' Scandal Raises Important Security Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Walter W. Jenkins scandal case raises this important question: How effective is the U.S. government program aimed at keeping possible security risks off the federal payroll?

The answer appears to be that an intensive effort is made, but that the machinery slips a cog now and then.

The magnitude of the effort is illustrated by a couple of statistics:

1. Last year the Civil Service Commission made 230,000 checks on applicants for non-sensitive jobs, such as mailmen. These checks cost about $5 each.

2. In the same period, the commission made 35,000 "full field investigations" of people wanting sensitive jobs, such as computer operators handling national defense data. The cost of these probes averaged about $390.

The Civil Service Commission handles most — but not all — of these investigations for the executive branch of government. The FBI handles quite a few, including White House appointees. And each of the military services has its own investigative branches.

All Investigated

Under an executive order issued years ago and reinforced in another order of 1948, every appointive officer in the executive branch, from cabinet officer down to waste-basket emptier, is supposed to have clearance of some kind of another.

The highest clearances are required for all members of the National Security Council except the president and vice president and all who attend council sessions where sensitive matters are discussed. This includes the secretary of state, the secretary of defense and the director of the Office of Emergency Planning.

The National Security Council does not make investigations itself. It relies on the agencies who send people before it.

"For example," an official said, "when Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara attends a session, he is responsible for the guaranteed security of himself and the people he brings with him."

Jenkins, who resigned as special assistant to President Johnson this week after his arrest on morals charges in 1959 and last Oct. 7 became public knowledge, attended some National Security Council meetings and had access to any information the President had, persons familiar with his duties have said.

An Air Force Reserve officer, Jenkins was granted a top secret clearance by the Air Force in 1956 after an investigation into his background, the Defense Department said last night.

In 1958, when Johnson was majority leader of the Senate and in a position to receive much classified information, Jenkins, as his aide, was investigated by the FBI at the request of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Sources have said this check disclosed no personal behavior that might reflect unfavorably on Jenkins' clearance for access to classified material.

Weekend Toll At 8 This Morning

Eight persons were killed on Michigan highways in the early hours of the weekend, including two women who died in a head-on crash.

The Associated Press weekend traffic count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Sunday.

Killed when their autos collided on M20, about 20 miles north of Muskegon Friday night were Bernice Hower, 53, of Muskegon, and Jean Lyon, 36, of Twin Lake.

British Labor Rule, China's Bomb Topics

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called the National Security Council to the White House today as he abandoned the campaign trail for a watchful weekend in the capital.

The President had planned to spend today at his ranch in Texas and to campaign Sunday in the state. But this went by the boards amid turbulent international developments.

The top item on the agenda for today's council session is to review with his key advisers issues arising from the ouster of Soviet Premier Khrushchev and the formation of a new government in Moscow.

Two other topics certain to be discussed are Red China's explosion yesterday of a nuclear device — its first — and the institution of a new Labor government in London.

Red Patch-up Expected

Information available from high administration officials indicates this is Washington's view of the week's three dramatic developments: 1. Shake-up in the Kremlin — The new leaders of the Soviet Union, Communist party boss Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin, probably will make some move toward patching up the Soviet-Chinese split and restoring unity to the whole Communist bloc. U.S. officials doubt that a real reconciliation is possible, but the removal of Khrushchev, the major Chinese target, at least clears the way for the new Kremlin bosses to explore the chances of settlement.

If problems are undertaken and they result in easing the differences, the Soviet Union may swing to a somewhat tougher line toward the West.

On the other hand a sharpening of the Moscow-Peking struggle would probably lead to closer relations between the Soviet Union and the United States.

Countries Assured

2. Chinese nuclear explosion — The major U.S. problem is to try to assure any Asian countries which might be intimidated by the Chinese nuclear achievement that the United States will back them if they are threatened by Red China.

Officials report that so far they are encouraged by the reaction of Red China's neighbors, who seem to understand that a nuclear explosion does not mean China has immediate real nuclear military power.

3. British election — On the whole, U.S. officials do not anticipate any serious policy differences with the new British government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson, although progress toward agreement on the proposed NATO nuclear missile fleet seems sure to be slowed down considerably. This in turn could create some difficulties with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, who has been pressing for an early settlement of the nuclear fleet issue.

The President and his advisers are mainly preoccupied with trying to determine the future course of Soviet foreign policy, which for almost two years has been based on development of the nuclear fleet issue.

Policy Questioned

Khrushchev's policy of "peaceful coexistence" with the United States and other allied powers.

Acting on instructions from Moscow, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin called at the White House yesterday and told the President the Soviet policy of "strengthening peace, peaceful coexistence among countries with different social systems, and further relaxation of tensions" will not be changed.

Officials said that two developments gave significant but by no means conclusive evidence of how the future course of Soviet policy might develop.

The new Moscow rulers sent a message to Johnson and many other world leaders announcing the change of government and offering assurance that basic Soviet foreign policy including peaceful coexistence, would not be changed. The approach to Johnson by Ambassador Dobrynin was clearly a bid for continued U.S.-Soviet friendly relations in the immediate future.

About the same time the top leaders of Red China, led by Mao Tze-tung, sent a message of congratulations to Brezhnev and Kosygin.

Narrowly Elected Wilson Marshals New Government

LONDON (AP) — Installed in office by a razor-thin margin, Britain's new prime minister, Harold Wilson, pushed ahead today the business of forming a Labor government.

With a probable Parliamentary majority of only four votes, the 48-year-old prime minister will have little leeway to carry out his five-year program.

Wilson's most controversial measures — steel renationalization, government ownership of urban building land and the phasing out of Britain's nuclear deterrent — are bound to meet powerful opposition after the new Parliament meets Oct. 27.

Friday night's late returns with one result to come gave Wilson's Laborites 317 of the 630 House of Commons seats. The Conservatives of former Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home had 303 seats and the Liberal party 9—an over-all majority for Wilson of five.

The last seat is expected to be held by the Conservatives, reducing the slender Labor margin further.

Moved Swiftly Wilson moved swiftly to form his administration. Within hours of his call to Buckingham Palace where he met with Queen Elizabeth III on his appointment, the Prime Minister named his first six cabinet ministers.

The key post of foreign secretary went to Patrick Gordon Walker, despite his defeat for a Commons seat at the hands of a Tory candidate.

Gordon Walker, 57-year-old pipe smoking party intellectual, was expected to get a safe Commons seat upon the retirement of one of Labor's elderly rank-and-filers.

George Brown, 50, deputy party leader, was named minister of economic affairs and first secretary of state which means, in effect, he is deputy prime minister.

Other appointments were: Denis Healey, 47, minister for defense; Jim Callaghan, 52, chancellor of the Exchequer; Herbert Bowden, 59, leader of the House of Commons and Lord Gardiner, 65, lord chancellor or head of the nation's judiciary.

Outside the cabinet, Edward Short, 52, was appointed chief whip with the role of keeping Labor's headline majority intact during crucial votes.

Nuclear Question Healey's appointment as defense minister came on the same day as Red China's first atom blast and with the looming question of the British nuclear deterrent to be solved. Wilson has said he will let the national nuclear armory slide while renegotiating the Nassau Agreement under which Britain is buying Polaris missiles from the United States.

Wilson may be forced to reach some arrangement with the Liberals, to stay afloat. Liberal leader Jo Grimond made it clear the first move must come from the new prime minister but he indicated he was open to suggestion.

Some political experts predicted Wilson's administration could last for at least three years, but there were ominous overtones.

George Woodcock, general secretary of the British Trades Union Congress, predicted the next election would come within 12 months because the Laborites would find the pace too tough on their tiny majority.

HAROLD WILSON, right, Britain's new prime minister, waves to a crowd as he leaves Transport House, Labor Party headquarters in London, Friday for an audience with Queen Elizabeth following resignation of Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home. With him is George Brown, deputy party leader who becomes first secretary of state and minister for economic affairs in the new government and Mrs. Wilson. (AP Wirephoto)

Red China Joins U.S.-Soviet Atom Power Struggle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A world coexisting uneasily between two nuclear power blocs is now confronted with three.

The division came Friday with Red China's announcement that a nuclear device had been exploded in her western reaches.

And Red China did it, beginning almost from scratch, in six years of incredibly intensive work.

According to intelligence sources here, Red China did not embark formally on a nuclear program until the summer of 1958 with the construction of a nuclear reactor near Peking with Soviet assistance.

This plant was capable of producing 2.5 kilograms of plutonium a year — enough for one bomb at the end of two years.

Build Research Labs Since then intelligence sources have figured there are 15 atomic research laboratories in Peking alone and 21 elsewhere in Red China.

The explosion was no surprise to U.S. officials. On Sept. 29, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the Chinese Communists were approaching a point where they might be able to detonate a nuclear device and that it might occur in the near future.

There are now five nations in the atomic "club" — the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union, France and Red China.

Khrushchev KO Adds Reason To Drop LBJ: Nixon

By JEAN WORTH

ISHPEMING — America should vote for new leadership in the Nov. 3 election to confront the tough new leadership of Soviet Russia with more strength and because the President should be the moral leader of the nation, former Vice President Richard Nixon told on overflow Republican fund raising dinner audience in the National Guard Armory here Friday night. More than 400 attended, plus hundreds of Young Republicans.

Nixon was deeply critical of the Johnson Administration for suppression of scandals and failure of foreign policy. He said the Republican Goldwater-Miller ticket was gaining strength and could win the election as the nation awakened to political reality and re-appraised Lyndon Johnson.

Nixon said he found Michigan, freed of Soapy Williams, no longer low man on the totem pole of states in economic recovery. "From always having been above the national average in unemployment you've now got a better government than the other states in the Midwest with a governor who is attracting industry. You're on your way up, but it means not only electing George Romney, but the state ticket and the Legislature.

the Eisenhower administration we kept the peace without surrender for 8 years and I say it's time to return.

Doubts War

"I don't think there will be war, but a period of immensely stepped up peaceful competition in which survival will depend not only on American military strength in the next 25 to 50 years, but also on whether our economy — which now outproduces the Soviet Union — remains strong.

"Lyndon Johnson came to Congress a liberal, became a conservative and then a moderate and now he's a liberal again, so it's difficult to determine just what he is. His last action, picking Humphrey, is a clue. McNamara was his favorite but if he favored McNamara he might be stuck with Bobby Kennedy and he couldn't have that so he considered Mike Mansfield and Senator Dodd of Connecticut and finally picked Hubert Humphrey.

"Humphrey is a loyal American. He is against Communism, quite a speaker and quite a campaigner. He has introduced a lot of bills. He is a very sincere and very dedicated radical. I presided over the Senate during 8 of his 16 years there and Humphrey was 100 per cent down the line for ADA, which believes in nationalizing America — and LBJ. He's way over on the left bank of the Democratic party.

"If all Humphrey's bills and those he's voted for had got through they would have added $100 billion to the budget and $1,000 to every taxpayer's debt. I don't think Lyndon is any bargain but I think that's too big a price. LBJ is going to take the Democratic party sharply to the left and he showed it by his choice of Hubert Humphrey.

Morals Needed

"They say Barry Goldwater is going to abolish social security. He voted for social security and he voted to improve its benefits just a month ago. Goldwater stands for cutting the cost of government and having sound government, so that your pensions are worth a dollar and not 50 cents a few years from now.

"The Soviets believe that government has got to do everything. Just yesterday the British turned that way. I say let America turn toward freedom and we can do that.

"The country has got to have moral fiber, idealism and principles and the President should stand for these, but there is a cloud over the White House because Lyndon Johnson has refused to disassociate himself from the greatest scandal since World War II — from Bobby Baker, who in 1960 he called 'my strong right arm.' Baker used his government position to shake down contractors and got $2 million and when he was questioned he pleaded that he refused to incriminate himself. Lyndon Johnson said nothing.

"The New York Times, which has endorsed Lyndon Johnson for president, says he tried to cover up rather than expose Walter Jenkins. Can we trust a man who covered up for Bobby Baker and who tried to cover up for Jenkins with the most powerful office in the world?

"In Barry Goldwater the Republican party presents to the nation a man high in idealism and principles; a man you can trust."

Nixon was introduced by Ward Quaal of WGN-TV, Chicago. Nixon flew to Marquette from Lansing, addressed a rally at Marquette Airport, was interviewed by newsmen on WLUC-TV, addressed the fund raising dinner and flew to Detroit.

Citizens Oppose County Move Of Extension Offices

The Delta County Board of Supervisors, called into session today to act on the county's 1965 budget, was thrust into a full-scale floor fight with a group of rural residents angry over the Board-approved move of County Agricultural Extension offices from the Court House.

Unable to reach an agreement, the board recessed late this morning for its second inspection tour of the Court House's west wing in a week.

The Board Monday — after an inspection tour — had unanimously approved the shift of the Delta County Welfare Board office into the Court House from their present quarters in the State Office Building.

To accommodate the move, the Board authorized the shift of extension service personnel — Extension Director Joseph L.

Used Steel Booms Bought By City As Light Poles

The Escanaba City Council has approved the purchase of 25 used steel booms from the Harnischfeger Corp. at a scrap metal cost of $654, as recommended by City Manager George Harvey Thursday night.

The manager said the steel booms would make excellent lighting standards and would be available for lighting the athletic field or whatever use was decided upon.

One of the suggested uses was as lighting standards for the proposed new airport terminal site.

View Escanaba As All-Winter Shipping Port

BY CLINT DUNATHAN

Escanaba an all-year shipping port—Certainly a possibility. But beginning when?

Recent years have seen considerable scientific study toward this end, and for the past several weeks there have been persistent rumors that ore boats might load at Escanaba throughout the coming winter. Chicago & North Western Railway Co., which would be most directly involved in such an operation, has disclaimed other than a knowledge that the rumors exist.

The rumors extend in one shipping circles all the way from head of the Lakes at Duluth-Superior down through Escanaba to Chicago and Cleveland. The rumors have varying inferences and implications—but Escanaba always figures as the ore port for the all-winter operation.

Pellet Ore Dry
The speculations go something like this: 1 — Pelletized ore, the product of low grade ore processing plants, is dry and does not freeze in rail cars or dock pockets; therefore it could be transported in even the coldest winter weather.

2 — The quantity of pellet ore is increasing from plants at the Groveland Mine near Iron Mountain and the Empire Mine near Palmer. The volume shipped from Escanaba this season will top 2,000,000 tons.

3 — Sintered ore from the Duluth-Superior region could be moved most advantageously by rail to Escanaba, only ore port on Lake Michigan, and loaded out throughout the winter months.

4 — There's no particular problem in keeping channels open through Green Bay and Lake Michigan ice. Ann Arbor Railway carferries arrive and depart daily from Menominee and Manistique.

Rumors Strong
But the foregoing is speculative only, so far as authoritative sources are concerned. The Lake Carriers Association, composed of vessel operators, meeting recently in Cleveland at a forum on extension of the shipping season, concerned itself with later transport on the St. Lawrence Seaway—not on the upper Great Lakes.

Rumors went the rounds however, "stronger than ever," as one observer commented, that Escanaba was to be the scene of all-winter ore shipping.

There is basis for such speculation in events of the past, but nothing that would indicate any imminent start of year-around ore movement here.

For the past two winters the Great Lakes Research Division of the University of Michigan has conducted studies on the formation, growth, movement or drift of ice on Lake Michigan. Dr. John A. Heap of the U. of M. has visited here and elsewhere around Lake Michigan in connection with the study.

Studies Under Way
Men at the 23 Coast Guard Stations around Lake Michigan are cooperating as observers.

Dr. Heap described the objective of the research as the assembling of information which would determine whether it is economically feasible to move ore in the winter months through Escanaba to smelters on the lower lakes.

The ice scientist, who was born in England, educated at Edinburgh and a participant in ice distribution studies in the Antarctic, said on one of his visits that "Escanaba is considered the most advantageous port for the year-around handling of iron ore."

Another U. of M. researcher, Harry Benford, professor of naval architecture, more than a year ago predicted to the Lake Carriers Association that ore boats 1,000 feet long are feasible and would lower ore transportation costs from the U. P. mines.

He proposed the building of an 81,000-ton self-unloading bulk carrier to transport pelletized ore from Escanaba to the Chicago-Gary area. The vessel would have an ice-breaker bow and would operate the year around.

Perhaps it is these predictions and speculations that have been reborn into rumors of the present. So far as the Chicago & North Western Railway is concerned, the Escanaba dock is scheduled to close about mid-December—but then there's always another year and the possibility that Escanaba's all-year port will become an actuality in 1965.

HERMANSVILLE — The Sportsmen's Club met at Rodman's dining room Tuesday evening and discussed social activities for the winter season.

The club will sponsor a buck contest during the 1964 deer season scheduled to begin on Nov. 14. Prizes will be $15 for the largest buck and $10 for the smallest buck. Bucks are to be legal, that is have at least one antler three inches long. All deer entered in the contest must be field dressed and officially weighed at Lloyd Paquin's. All entrants in the contest must carry a 1964 membership card.

Our Image Aboard

John Birman, deputy director of adult education for the State of Western Australia, has been lecturing in the Upper Peninsula under auspices of the University of Michigan on our image abroad and he has been critical of it. It is harmful to the best interests of America and of the world, he suggests, to have the world think of America as a nation chiefly notable for racial strife, excessive wealth, slight entertainment, skimpy morals, shallow culture, "dollar" diplomacy, hospitals staffed by Dr. Ben Casey.

Birman says foreigners get much of their impression of America from American movies and it's a distorted picture. He was reminded that this is a free country and that our artists and businessmen are free to make the kind of movies they want to if they're not purrulent to the point of illegality, and that while this may cause us misunderstanding abroad, there seems no easy solution.

He suggested that we could have in America an agency like the British Council, an independent authority financed by Britain's colonies to project the British image abroad. It is not a government agency but works for the good of the nation overseas. "If I want to present a program on architecture in Australia I can get lecturers through the British Council," said Birman. "If I want talent in America I must approach a booking agency and it is more concerned with the fee it is going to make than with the effect the series will have abroad."

The difficulty of improving America's image abroad was cited by Birman in examples. Australians, he said, are apt not to see most of the best American movies in full. Because of block booking the Australians theaters buy a batch of movies and show them in double features.

"Murder, sex and psych (psychological films) are the great draw," said Birman, "so the good movie—Long Knife, Come Back Little Sheba, Death of a Salesman, Member of the Wedding—gets cut in half to give more time to the sex movie." Thus the best from America gets the worst treatment abroad and a judgment on American film quality is formed.

"Cultural growth in Australia, like in America, is hitting the middle class," said Birman. "They are learning different values in life. Dollar chasing doesn't seem so important. Why own three automobiles? Status may be in a small car instead of a big one."

"There is a tremendous increase in persons taking evening courses—non-credit. Socializing is more important than the big party. I noticed this in California. Maybe we're having a slowdown on gadgetry. The middle class and especially the women are the greatest market for culture today."

"We depend so much on experts in our living that we have a psychological reaction and look for something that we can do ourselves. Los Angeles has a doctors symphony orchestra. People are anxious to learn from a stranger. This is more true in Michigan than in Australia."

Asked about the future of "White Australia" in a world of color, Birman said that it is a matter for national concern. The situation, however, does not suggest to Australians that they let down the national bars on colored immigrants. A mixed population has caused the great race problems in America.

Australia, he suggested, must learn to live with a colored world, but it would not be made easier by making Australia more colored. This process, he said, is underway anyway. It got great stimulation, he said, when so many Aussies brought home Japanese brides from World War II. Australia is a center for higher education of Asiatics and when they marry Australians they are eligible for citizenship and this, too, breaks down Australia's "for whites only" policy.

So Australia, like America, is projecting a somewhat false image. The thought that the Japanese can get only air space in White Australia isn't completely true. Maidens of Nippon attending the University of Brisbane can become college widows there if they can marry profs, or even fellow students. But Australia isn't going to yield, thinks Birman, to growing pressures from colored nations to put them on a quota list for immigration. Even whites have got to have a skill to get in. They won't be able to compete in Australia with its high standard of living without it.

Birman has a point. We should be concerned with the tendency of foreign peoples to think that our entertainment mirrors factual America. But don't they know about our Peace Corps? It is a better missioner for America than its movies.

The Rev. Fr. Thomas P. Dunleavy will be formally installed as the pastor of St. Williams church in Menominee next Sunday. The Rev. Joseph J. Dunleavy, pastor of St. George's church at Bark River, a brother, will assist with the installation ceremony.

Mrs. Katherine Kinnen, 76, resident of Escanaba all her life, died today following a stroke. Mrs. Kinnen had long been prominent in church and community activities.

On last Memorial day, Escanaba's Roll of Honor signboard contained the names of an even 1,000 men and women. Space as left for 400 more names and to date 362 more names have been added. Of those listed, exactly 25 are known to have died in the service.

The first annual Schoolcraft county potato show opens today with a splendid array of the product. County Agricultural Agent Joseph Heirman will have charge of the exhibits. A banquet at the high school gymnasium tonight will climax the activities.

Even people in the "jail house" have feelings. Some, who have been unfortunate enough to have to spend the night in the Manistique city lockup have complained about being cold. And for good reason. Newspapers were provided for extra blankets. Now the situation has been remedied with a new supply of blankets.

"Who, Me?"

Finding The Way Time To Speak Out

By RALPH W. LOEW, D. D.

A prominent clergyman preached a sermon recently in which he declared his criticism of both presidential candidates. The wide publicity given the sermon aroused comment from far places. Some agreed and some disagreed. There have also been letters which say that the minister ought to keep quiet and quit meddling in politics. It is this last group that is dangerous.

Masters in this old business of telling ministers to keep out of politics were the Nazi gauleiters and the Gestapo agents. Last summer I preached in the quaint church in Dahlem, the suburb of Berlin. That ancient church, with its murals, its 700-year-old pulpit and its graveyard just outside the door seems to be the quiet retreat. Instead, it was the scene of a major struggle. Here Martin Niemoller preached.

In the days when Hitler was just coming into power, Niemoller spoke out. His sermons weren't astute. What he said in his announcements each Sunday was not calculated to keep German suburbanites busy thinking about some pious practice. He meddled in politics. One Sunday the heavy-booted guards of the police marched down the center aisle and took Niemoller off to jail. Of course, he was a meddler. Real religion always is!

That's the choice a man must make. Either the parson is going to be, as Saul Kane said to the parson:

With all your main and all your might
You back what is against what's right—

Or, he chooses to speak what he believes the Gospel says in the contemporary situation. Amos talked of the burning issues of his time and the angry worshippers at Bethel didn't like it. John the Baptist criticized moral values of his day. He could have stood around discussing the morality of another generation. So he was killed. When the mobs jeered Jesus, their accusation was "He stirreth up the people."

Prophetic religion is never popular. It certainly is disruptive of the old business of keeping everybody pacified and calm. It's vital and the voice of God is alive in the hearts of men.

Religion is not religiosity. It isn't just nice pieties. It isn't just nice people to keep calm when they ought to be involved in the great social issues that beset the human being. A man's religion may get him into trouble, but it

So They Say

"The other side got a sting out of this. If they do it again, they'll get another sting." —Dean Rusk on North Vietnamese torpedo boats which attacked the destroyer USS Maddox.

Problems exist, North South, East and West. But when anyone, regardless of color or creed, takes the law into his own hands, he becomes an enemy of his country.

—LeRoy Collins, director of the Community Relations Service.

will be a faith that is living and a righteousness that speaks. It's always easier to praise the prophets than to be prophetic. It's easier to enshrine the pioneers than to be one. It's easier to subsidize morality than emulate it. Knowing this we still have the necessity to speak.

A pulpit that is muzzled by public opinion or by the state or by the preacher himself is unworthy of its precious heritage. A pulpit that keeps quiet in a difficult time may be quiet in every time. It is not a time for fanatics and wild slashings. It is a time, as in every time, when disciplined minds and dedicated spokesmen preach that our day may know that it is under the judgment of a righteous God.

Contributions are welcome. They cannot be over 300 words and must be signed with name, address and phone number of writer and names will be used. The right to condense letters is reserved.

Today many of the students of Escanaba Area High School were told of the first of many budget cuts which will effect us directly. Our Music Department is one of the first in a list of many which will feel this impact.

We, the students of Escanaba Area High, have in the past several years maintained a height of excellence in the Music Department. One need only to read the papers for the results of the ratings we have received. People such as Rafael Mendez and Lucien Calliet have given our bands the label of "among the best they have played with in the nation." Our Madrigal Singers have been highly acclaimed, not to mention the excellence of our chorus and orchestra.

Yet, we were informed today that we would have no money for out-of-town trips, music and other supplies. By the cutting out of town trips we will not be able to participate in any rated festivals. People must realize that an incentive is needed if anyone is to have the desire to work for a goal. To the music department the rated festival is the incentive. In short we are going backward in our cultural education here in Escanaba.

To those who say music is not important we pose the following questions:

1. How would your favorite television program sound without background music?
2. What would your radio be like to listen to if there were no music on it?
3. How would your church service be if there were no music to enhance it?

Perhaps this is a one-sided argument for a particular department but we feel this is the way all of the departments of our school system are viewing their predicament.

We imagine some of you are thinking we are just teenagers and don't know anything about the situation. Perhaps you are correct. We do feel, however, that we are being cheated because we have seen the educational value of this type of activity...

Please don't be like my mother and tell me I'm too young to be in love. I've read all about love and this is it.

Rollie and I agree on everything, right down to the brand of toothpaste we like best. The only thing we don't have in common is religion. We can solve this problem later.

Rollie gets his leave in a few months and he wants to come out here to make my acquaintance. We are thinking about getting married. I can finish school later. Please give me some encouragement. My mother goes wild when I bring up the subject. —WISHING & HOPING

Dear W & H: Sorry, Tools, but I'm not going to encourage a kooky, mail order romance built on toothpaste.

It's rough enough these days to make a marriage work when two people KNOW each other. What chance would a couple of pen-pals have? Stay in school and cool it.

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago my wife and I told our friends we were planning a trip to London, Paris and Rome. Two weeks before our departure several friends came by the house to ask if we would do "a little shopping" for them.

We had requests for French kid gloves, woolen yard goods, perfume and wrist watches. A neighbor asked for whiskey "if we should stop at Shannon." My cousin brought over a list which covered three countries.

My wife is the type who can't say "no." Now she must devote several days of her vacation to shopping for friends.

Will you please say something in your column about this? Perhaps people who ask such favors aren't really aware that the customs allotment is $100 per person. Then there is the expense of excess weight on planes, not to mention the time and energy required to go hunt up the articles. Thank you. —ANNOYED

Dear Annoyed: The bold and brassy — ever ready to impose — will always be with us. If you wife can't say "no" to these clods she gets no sympathy from me. Let her pay the excess weight, wear out her shoes and spend her vacation time shopping. Real friends don't ask favors.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell me how often the wife's father and mother should visit, and how long they should stay? My wife's parents lived in Washington State and have retired to Wyoming. We make our home in Florida.

They visit us for two weeks every six months. One visit is always at Christmas time. It seems to me that one visit a year, for about five or six days, should be just about right.

I'm sure others have this problem. Will you express your views? —HAD E. NUFF

Dear Had: Some in-laws shouldn't visit at all. Others would be welcome six months out of every year.

Since you feel your in-laws are overdoing it, why not discuss with your wife the possibility of inviting them—Specifically for five or six days — at Christmas. Period. I see no reason for people to have guests often or for longer periods than they want them.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Washington Comment

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — NEA client editors predict overwhelmingly that President Lyndon B. Johnson will defeat Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona for the presidency on Nov. 3.

In a broad-ranging Newspaper Enterprise Association survey that drew replies from 47 of the 50 states, the 380 responding editors were recorded as follows:

• 323—some 85 per cent of those reporting—picked Johnson as winner.

• 51—just 13.4 per cent—chose Goldwater.

• Six ventured no opinion. Almost 90 per cent of the respondents in the Old South, and 78 per cent of those reporting from the Midwest, named Johnson the likely victor.

These results are interesting in light of the fact that Goldwater counts heavily on these two regions—plus the Mountain West — to give him the foundation support necessary to November victory.

In this Editors' Poll, the President's margins were equally wide in all other sectors of the country.

The editors were asked also to specify which of the two major party nominees would carry their individual states.

Their replies, broken down by states, assign to the President a total of 27 states with 332 electoral votes (270 needed to win), to Goldwater's 15 states with 170 electoral votes.

For eight states and the District of Columbia, these together having 36 electoral votes, the results are either too few or are inconclusive.

The state-by-state breakdown is, it should be noted, in rough accord with several published surveys—though it gives somewhat more strength to Goldwater than do these other samplings.

Of the 380 responding editors (or publishers), 109 said their newspapers are endorsing Goldwater, while almost as many—106—said their endorsements were going to President Johnson.

In other and somewhat larger soundings, Goldwater's edge in endorsements was more pronounced.

Some 60 editors said their papers are undecided about endorsing. Another 53 said they would endorse neither candidate, and 52 did not answer the question.

Of the 60 undecided, 48—some 80 per cent—are traditionally Republican newspapers, and only nine are Democratic, with the other three independent. Of the 53 which say they are endorsing no candidate, 18 identify themselves as Republican, five as Democratic, with the remainder independent.

Johnson's 106 endorsements include 29 newspapers which have switched from a traditional Republican endorsement policy in 1964. Goldwater's 109 include five — all in the Old South — which this year have turned away from customary endorsement.

City Income Tax Gains Momentum In State Circles

By BILL HALLS
Associated Press Writer

The city income tax, spearheaded by Detroit and the subject of a battle between Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, Gov. George Romney and a suburban pressure group, is making a strong toe hold in several other Michigan communities.

The Detroit suburb of Hamtramck was the first to climb on the Cavanagh-reined band wagon.

Then a broadside fired by Berkley Mayor George Kuhn, head of the Vigilance Tax Committee, a suburban group, set off a fight in the State Legislature which ended in limitations on municipal taxing powers last spring.

The original Detroit tax, copied by Hamtramck, called for one per cent on residents and nonresidents who worked in those cities alike.

Kuhn's committee protested no city has the right to tax nonresidents.

Romney countered with a "uniform" city income tax bill designed to prevent municipalities from levying income taxes on differing rates or bases.

The bill, as passed last spring, limits levies on nonresidents to one half per cent. The resident levy is still one per cent.

Tuesday night, Hamtramck councilmen approved the one per cent resident, one half per cent nonresident stipulation to conform with the new state law.

Since then, Grand Rapids, Flint, Saginaw, Muskegon and Muskegon Heights have approved identical city income tax ordinances.

Battle Creek, Jackson and Pontiac are in the process of passing them.

Wyoming, a Grand Rapids suburb, and Roosevelt Park, a Muskegon suburb, are talking about city income taxes.

Other communities around Michigan are listening — hard.

How is it working out?

Provides Millions
For the year ended June 30, 1964, Detroit realized $40.2 million dollars. City spokesmen say next year the tax should bring in $38.2 million and about $35.2 million in 1966. The decline, they say, is due to the imposition of the uniform tax rate law.

City Controller Joseph Miekstyn of Hamtramck said after the fiscal year ended last June 30 "we had a surplus for the first time in at least 15 years."

Hamtramck's $216,000 surplus came on the heels of an $816,000 deficit for fiscal 1962.

For the year ending June, 1964, said Miekstyn, the suburb

Soviet Weapons Reach Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Unconfirmed reports say Cyprus has received its first delivery of Soviet military aid under the agreement signed in Moscow two weeks ago.

The paper Telefele Ora said an undisclosed number of Soviet torpedo boats have been taken over by Greek Cypriot crews trained in Egypt.

Commissioners promised to abandon plans for an income tax if the property tax hike is passed by voters.

Jackson, whose city council has promised a property tax reduction if a city income tax becomes law, apparently had no organized opposition to the income tax.

Pontiac's income tax proposal faces a public hearing and final council action next week. It was introduced Tuesday night.

Leonard Kyle, MSU agricultural economist, said average interest earned on total investment dropped from 5.2 per cent in 1962 to 2.7 per cent in 1963.

Kyle said the 58 farmers reporting to MSU operate 300 tillable acres with a $170,000 investment. Total costs in 1963 averaged $40,000, nearly $4,000 higher than gross income, he said.

"Many cattle feeders faced with the past two unprofitable years were forced to reconsider and even change their plans before purchasing more cattle this fall," Kyle added.

Wide income variations for cattle feeding farms "are mainly due to prices paid for stockers and feeders together with the changing market price for slaughter cattle," Kyle said.

Election Board Named For Nov. 3 At Ford River

The Ford River Township Board meeting Tuesday appointed as election officials on Nov. 3 Grace Fenlon, Hilding Olson, Eunice Van Elsacker, Evelyn Sundstrom, Art Nelson and Mary Wellman.

The board commended Joseph Rademacher, Jr., for his services as maintenance man of the Ford River Township water system on the occasion of his resignation. Victor Friedgen was named to maintain the water system.

A picnic area at the Township Hall for use starting in 1965 was discussed and the board recommended resurfacing of the A-4 road near Hyde, where old gravel is deteriorated.

Treasurer Clarence Dittrich reported that about $5,000 of the $6,000 road fund has been spent so far.

Nick Brayak, Jr., reported that the Recreation Board would meet soon to plan ice-rinks for the winter.

Jerome Stannard, chairman of the Water Board, said mains have been prepared for winter and that a thawing fee of $7.50 will be charged, as last year. Dayton Dittrich, constable, said he had new sanitation forms for liquor and beer licensees.

State Winning Struggle With Japanese Beetles

LANSING (AP) — With the exception of a heavy infestation in the Battle Creek area, Japanese beetles appear to be under control in Michigan, reports the State Agriculture Department.

The department report followed a beetle-trapping program employing 20,000 traps.

Only 1,504 acres needed treatment with insecticide in widely scattered areas near Grand Rapids, Ann Arbor, St. Joseph in rural Cass County and in metropolitan Detroit. In the Battle Creek area, however, some 90,000 acres were sprayed for the insects.

The infestation in the Battle Creek area is being carefully studied in anticipation of a control program this fall, the department said.

The beetle destroys grain and farm crops and could be a serious threat unless controlled, the department said.

Priests' Pay Is Council Theme

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council centered its attention today on the material aspects of the priesthood, with many prelates calling for an equalization of salaries.

The main theme of nonspiritual aspects of the council document on the priesthood was elimination of extremes in the material return priests get for their service.

The salary of a Roman Catholic diocesan priest varies greatly throughout the world and even within individual countries. In the United States it ranges from $50 a month in small dioceses to $100 a month in major archdioceses. This is in addition to food and lodging.

Cattle Breeders Report Losses In 1963 Returns

EAST LANSING (AP) — Cattle feeding farms reporting to Michigan State University suffered an average loss of $1,190 in labor and management returns in 1963, compared with a $6,837 gain in 1962.

September Farm Payroll Highest In U.S. History

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department says non-farm payroll employment in September was 59.8 million, the highest level in the nation's history.

This was 1.6 million above the total for last September and 600,000 above the previous month, an increase about 100,000 more than that normally expected.

The department's analysis of the September job picture also showed Thursday that the number of persons employed in manufacturing industries totaled 71.8 million, just below the all-time records set in 1943 during World War II and in 1953 during the Korean conflict.

The Labor Department announced Oct. 1 that the unemployment rate for September was 5.2 per cent, compared with 5.1 in August and 5.5 last September.

Canadians OK Amendment Plan For Constitution

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and the premiers of Canada's 10 provinces have agreed on a formula for amendment of the Canadian Constitution by the nation's Parliament and not by Britain's.

A communique after a meeting between Pearson and the premiers termed the agreement a "milestone in the evolution of Canada's government."

All changes in the British North America Act — the Canadian Constitution — now must be approved by the British Parliament.

An act incorporating the agreement will be approved by the provincial legislatures and the Canadian Parliament before being submitted to the British Parliament. It will be the last Canadian constitutional change that the British Parliament will approve.

The Great Lakes Conference, largest prep league in the Upper Peninsula and boasting most of the region's biggest schools, is having a tough time again this fall against non-conference football competition. Great Lakes teams have met 16 non-conference foes entering this weekend's action. In those 16 games, GLC teams have won six, lost eight and tied two.

The Menominee Range Conference has fashioned a fabulous record against non-conference opponents this season. Teams in the Menominee Range have faced 16 non-conference foes and have registered 14 victories against two ties.

Watersmeet's undefeated Nimrods clinched at least a tie for the Porcupine Mountain Conference fall baseball championship by edging Bergland 4-2 this week. Jeff Wasson pitched Coach Joe Kuker's team to its seventh straight victory, allowing four hits while fanning seven batters. Losing pitcher Bob Kilmer tossed a three hitter and fanned 12.

Plans for the proposed new athletic conference were continued at a meeting in Stephenson this week with the rough draft of a conference constitution. Escanaba representatives explained the school's position regarding the possible curtailment of the athletic program and the conference agreed to include the Eskymos on a tentative basis in scheduling and other matters, pending determination of Escanaba's athletic future.

Escanaba has a big bulge in the long football series with Iron Mountain, this afternoon's non-conference foe. The teams met for the first time in 1897 and have played annually since 1926, with the exception of the 1942 season. Escanaba has won 26 games, Iron Mountain 15 and one ended in a scoreless tie. The Eskymos have won three of the last four meetings.

Keane, Berra Out As Team Managers

By The Associated Press
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Quiet, gentlemanly Johnny Keane submitted his resignation as manager of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals Friday, triggering an unprecedented World Series aftermath.

Only 19 hours after the victorious Cardinals had poured champagne over his graying hair, the 53-year-old skipper walked into President August A. Busch's office and handed him a letter dated Sept. 28. Keane's wife, Lela, had typed the letter of resignation a week before the season ended.

A few hours later, the New York Yankees — mastered in the hard-fought seven-game series by Keane's Cardinals — announced that Yogi Berra would not return as manager.

Neither the Cards nor Yanks made any immediate announcements about managerial replacements.

"I told Mr. Busch not to make any offer," Keane told a news conference in the Anheuser-Busch Inc. board room. The brewery owns the Cardinals.

"I handed him my resignation and said my decision was firm — that I didn't want to embarrass him — but that no offer would be acceptable."

"This really shocked me," Busch commented. "I didn't know a thing about it until I saw Johnny this morning. All I can say is that I'm damned sorry to lose Johnny."

"My wife and I were in complete agreement with this decision," said Keane, who had climaxed 35 years with the Cardinal organization by bringing St. Louis its first world championship since 1946.

What prompted Keane's resignation? "A number of little things," Keane said, "none really important."

One of the "little things" Keane mentioned, however, was Busch's firing in mid-August of Cardinal General Manager Bing Devine, a close personal friend of Keane's.

But the blue-eyed Keane denied published reports that three other things rankled him into resigning. They were reported demands for:

1. A large increase in salary over his $35,000 yearly.

2. A two- or three-year contract.

3. A policy of non-interference from Branch Rickey, 82-year-old special consultant to the Cardinals.

"All those things the papers said I was after are absurd," Keane said of the reports. "And as far as Mr. Rickey is concerned, he couldn't have been nicer to me."

However, another factor possibly was the turning point.

Keane had appeared out as St. Louis manager in August, amid reports that Busch had reached an agreement with Leo Durocher, then a coach for the Los Angeles Dodgers, Durocher was said set for Keane's job next year.

There were reports late Friday that the Yankees were considering Keane as Berra's replacement. Speculation also involved the Pittsburgh Pirates, where Danny Murtagh recently resigned; the New York Mets, where Keane's friend Devine was assistant to President George Weiss.

Keane's resignation, which shocked the baseball world, made him the third field manager in major league history to step down after leading his team to the pennant and baseball's world championship.

Bill Carrigan of the Boston Red Sox who after his team won the World Series in 1916. And another Cardinal manager, Rogers Hornsby, was traded to the Giants after leading the Redbirds to the 1926 championship.

Paul, who went on a much-publicized trip to three western cities, said after the meeting: "I sincerely hope we can stay in Cleveland forever — and I'm sure every director feels the same way."

The vote to stay was unanimous.

The board signed a 10-year lease with the city for use of the stadium, with an option for either party to cancel at the end of each year.

The final decision had been postponed from Oct. 6. Paul said then the club had lost about $2 million over the last two seasons because of poor attendance.

The Indians' home attendance was 653,293 in the season just ended, when they tied for sixth place, and 562,507 last year.

The Tribe drew over a million each year from 1946-55. Since then they have done it only once, drawing 1,497,976 in 1959 for a second place club.

Cleveland and St. Louis are tied for the Eastern Conference lead with 3-1-1 records. The Cardinals play in St. Louis for the first time this season, meeting Washington (1-4), fresh from a victory last week over Philadelphia. The Browns meet Dallas (1-3-1) on the rebound from a defeat by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

In other NFL games, Philadelphia (2-3) plays at New York (1-3-1), Pittsburgh (3-2) is at Minnesota (2-3) and San Francisco (2-3) is at Los Angeles (2-2-1).

Buffalo's Bills, leading the AFL Eastern Conference with five straight victories, move into Kansas City (2-2) Sunday. The Denver Broncos (1-4) are at San Diego (2-2-1).

In the weekend opener, the Oakland Raiders ended a five-game losing streak but barely hung on to share a 43-43 tie with Boston, now 4-1-1 and second to the Bills in the east.

Horning was injured last week and may play, although Packers Coach Vince Lombardi is often close-mouthed about the effect of injuries to key players.

In the season's first meeting between the clubs, Horning missed an extra point attempt as the Colts won 21-20. The Colts (4-1) lead the Packers (3-2) by one game in the conference.

The defending champion Chicago Bears (2-3) will depend on the passing of Bill Wade against the Detroit Lions, whose 3-1-1 record gives them a strong interest in the outcome of the Colts' clash.

Cleveland and St. Louis are tied for the Eastern Conference lead with 3-1-1 records. The Cardinals play in St. Louis for the first time this season, meeting Washington (1-4), fresh from a victory last week over Philadelphia. The Browns meet Dallas (1-3-1) on the rebound from a defeat by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Clevenger For Govt. Aid Use To Spur Economy

Raymond Clevenger, Sault Ste. Marie attorney who is the Democratic nominee for Congress in the new 11th District, thinks that the top issue in his contest with Congressman Victor Knox (Republican) also of the Sault — is their different approaches to economic interests.

"I think that we can take federal government aid to help us solve our economic problems and that we should — the Economic Opportunity Act (War on Poverty) and other programs," said Clevenger.

"All of the federal aid bills — Area Redevelopment, Public Housing, Economic Opportunity, and some of the education bills like college housing — contain provisions that are specifically applicable to us."

"Three basic problems are the themes of the campaign. "One is our district's economy, which is going down while the national and state economies are moving up."

"The second is our natural resources — protecting and utilizing what we have."

"The third is our older people, the senior citizens, who really can't leave. We have a higher percentage of these people than most areas."

Talking Specifics

"These are the three areas of deepest concern and we're talking about local problems here that are part of the national problem. I'm not arguing philosophically about what we should do about the poor in Appalachia, but about what we can do with the poor here. And with the not so poor."

"The national average of families with income under $3,000 a year (benchmark of poverty) is about 20 per cent. In Michigan it is about 15 per cent but in the counties of the 11th District it goes as high as 34 per cent."

"The state average of families having incomes of over $10,000 is about 17 per cent and up here it's only about 5 or 6 per cent. People in this class have more time to contribute to public activities and we have fewer with such means. Although our people have the capacities for great contributions to the public, they lack the practical means. "One of the reasons I came to the Northland was that I thought it had one of the greatest potentials for growth of any area that I could see. And I wanted to be a part of it. After I got toward the end of my term in Lansing (as state corporation and securities commissioner) it was the spirit of new hope and opportunity and of coming prosperity and renewal that brought me back."

Choice Of Living

"The main reasons the Sault industries born at the turn of the century departed was that they were all technologically outmoded."

"The big cities today are overcrowded, unsanitary, grinding. This isn't really living."

"When I first went to the Sault people told us it would take 10 to 12 hard hours to drive from Ann Arbor to the Sault, and take a lunch and don't miss the last ferry. Now it's a 6 hour drive."

"To me this means that you can deliver an item produced here anywhere in the state overnight every day of the year. If we can find the means to get industry in and build our tourist business we can have our cake and eat it too."

"People who have chosen this type of living don't want a Tobacco Road sort of life. They are moving. I think my opponent, Vic Knox, has lost touch with this situation."

Legislative Record

"He has opposed Area Redevelopment Administration, the Community Facilities Act, the Economic Opportunity Act. The tax cut government participation in stimulating the economy is not government aid in the sense of a handout."

"Now he is not in a good position to let his constituents know what is available and to help them get fullest benefits. I think part of the job of a congressman is to act as an aide to his constituents when they get caught in the machinery of government."

"They cannot for instance, hire lawyers to go to Washington for them to expedite the granting of a 5,000 or $15,000 small business loan. I see people who need this."

Knox is trying to inherit the support of Congressman Bennett in the old 12th, but although they were both Republicans, on roll call votes on bills that affect us — like the ARA Bill — Bennett voted yes and Knox and Goldwater voted no."

"In the defense bill Congressman Bennett was for preference for depressed areas, till of Wyandotte have returned home after a visit with Mr. Knox was against it. Bennett voted for the Padre Island National Seashore; Knox voted against it. This seems to me a case where a congressman is opposing parks elsewhere and working for one in his own district. On the Housing Act of 1961, the Water Pollution Act, the Food Stamp Plan, the Community Facilities Act, the tax cut bill, Bennett voted yes and Knox no. They differed on at least 30 major pieces of legislation affecting this area in the last 5 years."

Illinois Native

"The campaign has been a hard one. Congress has the best machinery for reelecting an incumbent known to man. This is part of our system and it gives the system stability, I suppose, so you don't have change until the people are convinced of the need of it."

"It is urged that Knox has great power of seniority in Congress, but where has it been used for the benefit of the district? He has made a lot of noise about a free Mackinac Bridge, but although he's a member of the Ways and Means Committee he hasn't been able to get the bill out of the appropriate committee."

Clevenger is a native of Oak Park, Ill. "Elly Peterson (GOP nominee for U. S. Senator) and I are both from Oak Park." He attended Oak Park High School, Roosevelt University, Chicago; London School of Economics at the University of London, and the University of Michigan Law School.

He was graduated from U-M in 1952. "I had $90, a wife, (Francine Corbat of Richmond, Mich., an alumna of Antioch College, the University of London and the University of Michigan) and a baby. He stayed on at Ann Arbor at the legislative research center of the law school, went to the Sault in 1953 to join Paul A. Adams and James Fenlon in a law firm."

Adams is now a supreme court justice and Fenlon is municipal judge at the Sault. Clevenger was state commissioner of corporations and securities in 1961-63 and then returned to the Sault. He ran for prosecutor of Chippewa County three times and lost, was elected circuit court commissioner. "Only one person has ever been elected as a Democrat on a county ticket in Chippewa County, a sheriff, but I think we're going to carry it this year," said Clevenger.

Sisters Charged With 80 Deaths In White Slaving

SAN FRANCISCO DEL RINCON, Mexico (AP) — Two sisters were found guilty Friday of slaying at least 80 girls in the operation of a white slave ring in central Mexico.

The sisters, Delfina Gonzalez Valenzuela, 56, and Maria de Jesus Gonzalez Valenzuela, 39, were given the maximum sentence, 40 years in prison.

Several hundred persons gathered in front of the court house in this small, isolated town as Judge Timoteo Lozano pronounced his verdict. The trial began last January and brought forth details of starvation, beatings and death.

Nineteen other persons were convicted of being members of the ring and given sentences ranging from 1 to 35 years.

The prosecution contended the ring had been operating for at least 10 years and the girls who were slain had tried to resist discipline.

The Gonzalez Valenzuela sisters admitted operating houses of prostitution but denied guilt for the deaths.

Jury Indicts 6 Klan Members

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted six white Athens men on charges of conspiring to injure and intimidate Negro citizens in Georgia. The action led a Ku Klux Klan leader to pledge support to those named in the indictments. The FBI identified them as members of the Klan.

The six included Cecil William Myers, 25, and Joseph Howard Sims, 41, who were acquitted Sept. 4 in a state court at near-Danielsville in the night rider, shotgun slaying of Lemuel Penn, a Washington, D. C. Negro educator.

FBI agents arrested three of the men Friday after the indictments were returned by a jury which had been hearing evidence in the civil rights case most of the week.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified them as Denver Willis Phillips, 24, a garage mechanic; George Hampton Turner, 32, a loom fixer; and Herbert Guest, 37, who operates the garage where Phillips works.

Also indicted was James S. Lackey, 28, who is in jail at Macon awaiting trial by the state in the Penn slaying.

Hoover described the six men as active participants in affairs of Clarke County Klavern No. 224 of the United Klans of America Inc., Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. Athens is the county seat.

The three taken into custody by the FBI Friday were brought before U. S. Commissioner Girard W. Hawkins.

He set bond at $10,000 each for Phillips and Turner. Guest's bond was fixed at $1,000 on a charge of possessing an unregistered, sawed-off shotgun in violation of the National Firearms Act. Guest posted the bond.

Phillips and Turner did not post bond and were detained. Penn, a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve, was returning to Washington with two other Army Reserve officers from Ft. Benning, Ga., when the shooting occurred on a lonely road about 23 miles northeast of Athens.

Episcopals Vote On Successor To Church Leader

By JERRY CURRY
ST. LOUIS (AP) — After a Holy Communion service, vested bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church ballot in solemn, secret session on a new leader today, choosing him from among themselves.

The scene of the meeting, to name a successor to the Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, is the 100-year-old Christ Church Cathedral in St. Louis.

The Rev. Mr. Lichtenberger, presiding bishop of the 3.5 million-member church, is resigning because of illness — Parkinson's disease.

The choice of the bishop to succeed him then goes for approval to the House of Deputies, the lay and clergy representatives of the bicameral legislature of the church's General Convention, meeting in Kiel Auditorium, five blocks from the cathedral.

Never in church history have the deputies failed to ratify the bishops' election of a presiding bishop.

Ag Officials Of U.P. Confer

About 20 representatives of the Department in the Upper Peninsula attended the conference and conferred with McIntyre, L. A. Policies and procedures occupied the officials.

Romney Lauded As 'GOP Leader Of Future'

Brooke, who like Romney has withheld endorsement of GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, would not predict the outcome of the national race but said:

Thrust to Top

"If a defeat (for Goldwater) is great then I think there is a strong possibility there would be a move by moderates and liberals for leadership (of the Republicans) and George Romney, whether he liked it or not, would be thrust into leadership."

Brooke said Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield, Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and possibly former United Nations ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge would also take leadership roles.

But he said he would list no Republican above Romney as a potential leader. "Romney is a figure conservatives and liberals and moderates can rally behind."

Serious Contest

"If Goldwater should lose narrowly," Brooke said, "there may be a very serious contest within the party for leadership."

Romney, in turn, praised Brooke as "destined to be one of the real national leaders of the Republican party." Romney will repay the visit Oct. 26 in Boston at a fund-raising dinner on Brooke's 45th birthday.

Today the governor was scheduled for a city-hopping tour in southeastern and thumb areas of Michigan, hitting Alpena, Marine City, St. Clair, Port Huron, Lakeport, Yale, Capac and Lapeer. At most of the stops he planned to take part in parades.

He'll rest Sunday, then open Monday activities at Battle Creek.

U.N. Assembly Opening Delay For Reds Seen

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Delegates predicted today the General Assembly will postpone its opening at least two weeks in an effort to avert a clash between the United States and Russia's new regime over U.N. peacekeeping dues.

The word spread after the United States switched its stand and made known it would agree to postpone the Nov. 10 opening if someone else proposed such a move. It was believed a group of Asian or African nations would broach the idea and the Communist bloc would agree.

LBJ Grabs Too Much Power, Barry Charges

unions are strong, he also blasted the idea of compulsory arbitration.

Goldwater added: "Contrary to what you have been told, I'll defend your right to strike and to collective bargaining."

Last night in Chicago in his first major campaign speech on civil rights, Goldwater said the American ideal "is neither to establish a segregated society nor to establish an integrated society. . . it is to preserve a free society."

He told a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner when the Constitution declares "that all men are created equal" it doesn't mean that their accomplishments, skills, achievement or ambitions are equal.

No Equality

"No, on those levels, there is no equality," Goldwater said. "There is only opportunity."

The Arizona Senator warned that progress toward equal rights might be slow. He added: "One kind of frustration can be brought about if no progress at all seems to be made toward greater equality of opportunity. Another can be brought about if everything short of total success is viewed as nothing at all, worthless, and deserving only contempt."

The speech followed a hectic day of campaigning in the Midwest which saw Goldwater twice cross the path of the Democratic nominee for vice president, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

They just missed each other at the airport in Sioux City, Iowa, and made a connection at the Sioux Falls, S.D., airport, where both addressed the National Corn Picking Contest.

Chance Meeting

Goldwater's motorcade returned to the airport just as Humphreys' was getting ready to pull out.

Humphrey strolled over to Goldwater and they chatted briefly about their families for a minute. Then Goldwater said: "I've got them all warmed up for you. I told the truth about you."

"And I'm going to tell the truth about you," Humphrey replied. "I don't know. They'll be a little bit confused."

As he walked back to his motorcade, Humphrey told reporters he had just wanted to say "hello." He added, "I think its about time we said hello in this campaign."

With a big grin and a wink, he told the reporters covering Goldwater, "why don't you come cover me and we'll have some fun?"

Goldwater told a reporter just before boarding his big jet, "if everybody in politics was like Hubert, we'd have more fun."

Michigan Men Plead Guilty To Arizona Murder

YUMA, Ariz. (AP)—Two men accused in the murder of a Houston truck driver pleaded guilty Friday to charges of second degree murder.
